

Two players, each with a dice and something that they can use to move around the board. Both throw their dice at the same time and the one that gets higher amount on its dice moves his „man” the same amount on the board. If both get the same amount they throw the dice again. The winner is the won that is first to the end.

